An exciting night in the countryside

Last weekend, George and his cousin Sarah camped near a forest.

They left the house at 10 o'clock in the morning and it was sunny and warm. First, they looked for a good place for their tent. They found a lovely place at the top of a hill. They put up their tent and then had chicken sandwiches and biscuits for lunch.

When it got dark in the evening, they made a fire. It kept them warm and they cooked burgers on it, too. They sang songs and told stories until it was very late. Then they went into their tent and went to sleep.

In the middle of the night, they heard a very loud noise.

'What was that?' asked George.

'I don't know,' answered Sarah. 'It sounded like a wild animal.'

They heard the sound again and started to feel very frightened.

'Come on,' said Sarah. 'We can't go back to sleep now. Let's go and have a look.'

It was very dark, so she turned on her torch. They opened the tent and went outside very quietly.

'It's not a wild animal!' laughed Sarah. 'It's only a cow, which has come to say hello to us!'

They said hello to the cow and then went back to sleep. What an exciting night!
